

Conservative Bankers Anxious on Proposed Central Bank System

WASHINGTON — When President Roosevelt addresses the approaching convention of the American Bankers Association, one thought will be uppermost in the minds of his audience:

"Will he give any inkling of his attitude on a central bank?"

This is the one issue that has the financial boys, big and small, jittery.

Their fright over a move for a Government controlled central bank at the next session of Congress even exceeds their fears of further inflationary measures, an unbalanced budget, or continued heavy emergency expenditures.

Every conceivable wile and strategy has been resorted to by the banking community to obtain a private expression of the President's views on the question.

They have been unsuccessful. The reason is simple. The President has not yet made up his mind.

But the mere fact that he is seriously studying the matter, is definitely not hostile to the project, sends cold shivers up and down financial spines.

Cleavage

In inner banking circles there is a sharp cleavage of opinion as to the public policy that should be pursued on the issue.

One group, made up chiefly of big, Torv, Federal Reserve System bankers, is for an aggressive challenge to the President on his entire monetary policy.

The recent trade of the Federal Reserve Council was a display of this attitude.

Accustomed for so many years to dominate the fiscal affairs of the country, it rolls these money potentates to the raw to sit by, unconsulted by the White House, taking, instead of giving, orders.

The second group, among them Francis M. Law, President of the American Bankers Association, is for a soft-treading, soft-speaking, attitude toward the President.

Law and his associates are bitterly critical of the Reserve Council's outlook.

They counsel "playing ball" with the Administration, warn that defiance and failure to cooperate will merely further antagonize the country and the President, inevitably lead to drastic measures.

"The President hasn't got it in for us, and we haven't got it in for him," Law tells his banker-friends.

"And, furthermore, if Roosevelt fails, we might get some one worse."

Careful

Secretary Henry Wallace, who in his shy, boyish way is proud of the high praise literary critics bestow on his recent book, encountered a friend who is writing a volume criticizing Administration policies, particularly agricultural.

"How is the book going?" Wallace asked.

"Oh, it's going along."

"Well don't let it go too far," Wallace replied with a grin.

New Reed

Battle-scarred Jim Reed is in the political arena again, and no one in the Midwest is being watched more closely by the political prognosticators of the Administration.

Reed, can, if he wants to, wreck Democratic chances to capture a Republican Senate seat in Missouri.

The reason for Jim's change of heart, his constant vituperation against the New Deal, has puzzled old Senatorial friends who know him as a rabid campaigner for the under dog.

Jim jumped from the modest salary of a Senator to the status of a millionaire.

First, he made a fair-sized fortune practicing law. On top of this, his brother died leaving him several public utility companies in Iowa. Finally, his new wife has made over a million as a big-time dressmaker.

A real nouveau riche, any Government move to dip into income makes Jim see red.

That may explain his statement that there is no real unemployment

CITY MUST CUT 1935 EXPENSE BY $18,000

Budget Ordinance Asks $57,235.59. Take Chance On Commission

ECONOMY IS NEEDED

Unpaid Water Bill Facing City Treasury

Council, with considerable apprehension, approved the city's budget for 1935 at its meeting Wednesday evening and trusted to luck that enough money can be obtained from the county budget commission, Auditor Cliff White, Treasurer Earl Hoffman, and Prosecutor Ray Davis, to operate through the year.

The figures in the budget ordinance were agreed upon after lengthy meetings of the finance committee of council and Clerk Fred Nicholas.

MUST ECONOMIZE

The budget for this year amounted to about $71,000 so the city will be forced to operate on an economy basis from now on. President of Council John C. Goeller said: "We have high hopes that fines and licenses from the mayor's court, receipts from Berger hospital and tax money coming into the city from beer and liquors will help take care of the difference in these figures."

No one is certain how much money will be available from the budget commission.

At the present time if the water bill of $2,101.56 was paid the general fund would show a deficit. The bill for the deficit larger. In the general fund now is found $2,666.61. Other funds, according to Ben H. Gordon, chairman of the finance committee, have the following balances: Library, $2,711.22; auto street repair, $558.46; gasoline tax, $1,233.91; hospital, $1,330.80. These balances were dated Wednesday.

$18,000 LESS

City officials have been told by T. D. Knapp, the auditor's office that they must operate in 1935 on $18,000 less than the present year.

Just how this will be done is beyond some of the officials.

Mayor W. B. Cady's collections during September amounted to: fines, $65.40; licenses, $4; fees, $8.70; bonds, $40, total, $118.10.

HOSPITAL FIGURES HEARD BY COUNCIL

Expenses For Three Months Amounted To $4,050, With Receipts $2,633.

Operating expenses at Berger hospital surpassed receipts $4,050.05 to $2,633.45 for the three month period, July, August and September, according to a report to council Wednesday evening by Miss Ethel Kirchofer, superintendent.

September's receipts amounted to $1,022.42.

The hospital's expenses during the period include: provisions, $711.25; laundry, $195.15; fuel and light, $125.62; medical and surgical supplies, $635.86; salaries, $2,137.17; other supplies, $245.

Miss Kirchofer's report disclosed further information. On July 1 there were seven patients in the hospital. Those admitted during the three months, 121; treated, 146; discharged, 122; deaths, 6; births, 17; operations, 36; days care, 878.

NEW JERSEY READY TO MOVE SUSPECT

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was technically placed in the custody of the New Jersey authorities today when the warrant of extradition, signed by Governor Herbert H. Lehman at Albany, was served on the Lindbergh case prisoner in the Bronx county court.

This action took place when Hauptmann was brought into the court this morning where he was scheduled to go on trial on a charge of extorting $50,000 ransom from Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. The extortion case was to be postponed, however, in order to let the New Jersey officials take the prisoner to that state to try him for murder in connection with the baby Lindbergh kidnapping.

After the extradition warrant was served upon him, Hauptmann was temporarily returned to the custody of the Bronx-co sheriff.

A detail of seventeen New Jersey state troopers are being held in readiness in the Bronx to escort Hauptmann to the jail at Flemington, N. J., as soon as all the legal technicalities in New York are completed.

Defense Attorney Fawcett told the court he wanted Hauptmann held in New York for "a reasonable length of time" so he could institute habeas corpus proceedings.

Fawcett intended to go before Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer with his application for the writ of habeas corpus.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was in desperate need of money before the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, and attempted to enlist aid in robbing a bank, according to James Bruce Russell, 35-year-old convicted money order forger and self-admitted former pal of Hauptmann.

Russell signed a statement, federal officials said today, in which he said that Hauptmann asked him to help in the bank robbery, but that he refused.

MECHANIC TO FACE INDIANA CHARGE

Roy Martin, 929 S. Washington-st, who has been employed as a mechanic at a local garage, was returned to his former home, Muncie, Ind., Wednesday evening, to face several charges against him there.

Martin was arrested at the request of Sheriff Otis P. Snodgrass, of Delaware-co, Indiana, who charged he illegally bought an automobile, paying for it with a bad check. Snodgrass and two deputies came after Martin who also went under the name of Miller and Muller.

His wife and two small children returned to Indiana with him.

ENGINE KILLS NEW HOLLAND MAN IN RAILS

Sylvester Shipley Second of Family To Be Killed By Train; Rites Friday.

Struck by a Pennsylvania freight train, Wednesday afternoon while he was asleep on the rails in West Holland, Fayette-co section of New Holland, Sylvester Shipley, 79, lifelong resident of that village, was dead today. He was the father of Mrs. Herschel Moats, this city.

Trainmen said Shipley was sitting on the south rail with head clasped in his open hands and his elbows resting upon his knees with his feet upon the ties outside the tracks. The train crew included Engineer Ed Wass, Conductor Frank Singletary and brakeman J. U. Dick, all of Lancaster. Dick is a former New Holland man.

WHISTLE BLOWN

The trainmen and residents near the Circle avenue crossing where the accident happened say that the "crossing whistle" was sounded and so was a series of short blasts, but the man did not move as the train bore down upon him.

The engine was slowed down considerably before striking the man and was stopped within two car-lengths. Shipley lived 10 minutes after being struck. His head was lacerated but his body was not mangled.

Besides the widow the following children survive: Mrs. Moats, this city, Mrs. Jessie Cherry, Mrs. Ella Fanning, Misses Etta and Sylvia, Woodrow and Ray. Two sisters, Mrs. Ella Kephart, of West Virginia, and Mrs. Mary Shipley, of Nebraska, and two brothers, Blufford and Chapman, of the New Holland community, also survive.

The funeral will be Friday at 1:30 p. m. at the home with burial in New Holland cemetery by A. W. Kirk.

Mr. Shipley's father, Solomon Shipley, took his own life by drowning in a pond near the village about 45 years ago, while a brother, Willis, who was blind, was killed on the Pennsylvania tracks in 1903.

Pastor Leaves For Iowa Church Session

An effort to have council assume at least part of the expense caused by special police during Pumpkin Show week was made Wednesday evening by Robert G. Colville, treasurer of the show. The matter was placed in the hands of the finance committee for consideration.

Mr. Colville reported that special police, financed entirely by the show society, cost $501.10. Sixty-four men, operating in different shifts, were used during the week.

It is uncertain what part of the expense can be handled by the city since a dark picture of its financial outlook was painted at the meeting.

SOCIETY LEADER HURT AS $50,000 IS ASKED

Wooded Section of Kentucky Searched for Lone Kidnap; Wealthy Husband Urges Wife's Safe Return as Definite Leads Are Missing

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—Grave fears for the life of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, kidnaped 26-year-old society leader and wife of a wealthy oil company executive, grew today as the hours passed without word from her or her lone captor.

Anxiety was intensified when it was learned that blood streamed from a deep gash in her forehead as her abductor, who struck her twice with an iron pipe, carried her from her suburban home to his automobile late yesterday afternoon.

ILL WITH COLD

Mrs. Stoll was ill with a severe cold and her temperature shortly before the abduction was 103, her frantic husband, Berry V. Stoll, revealed today.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—Search for the ruthless kidnaper of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll was concentrated today in a woodland area bordering Lake Louisville, 20 miles east of here and eight miles from the Stoll home.

A farmer reported seeing a woman fighting a man in an automobile in that vicinity about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon; two girls said they passed an automobile containing a woman slumped down in the seat as if ill; and search of lake cottages yielded signs that two had been entered last night.

USE STATE POLICE

As the morning wore on police admitted they were without definite leads. The new state police force was called into action for the first time, being placed at the disposal of the Louisville authorities by Adj.-Gen. H. H. Denhardt.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—Desperate efforts were made today to establish contact with the kidnapers of pretty Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, 26, as twelve hours after she was brutally beaten, bound and abducted from her suburban home here her fate remained shrouded in mystery.

In compliance with a note found in the home after the abduction a ransom reported to be $50,000 was understood to be ready for delivery to the kidnapers.

Two friends of the missing woman's husband, Berry V. Stoll, wealthy vice president of the Stoll Refining company, were holding the ransom cash at a residence, the whereabouts of which was held a secret, according to well informed sources.

SACKETT'S NIECE

Mrs. Stoll, a comely brunette, is the niece of Frederick Sackett, former United States senator and former ambassador to Germany. The Stolls are prominent in social circles here.

The ransom note, typewritten and lengthy, was generally believed to contain threats against other members of the family of oil manufacturers. Its contents were regarded as so important that federal agents refused to make the letter public.

Belief varied as to whether the young victim was kidnapped as an act of vindictiveness vented against her wealthy husband or was executed by a well-organized gang only to collect the ransom money.

Stoll himself discovered the abduction when he returned to his residence overlooking the Ohio river north of here at 5 o'clock last evening.

The husband found a maid, Mrs. Fowler Willett, 24, gagged and tied to a chair. He hastily freed her and she told him of the kidnapping of his wife.

A lone man entered the house

PARENTS REFUSE TO BELIEVE BABY DEAD MIX-UP IS CHARGED

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 11.—Still convinced that their new-born child is alive despite the denials of hospital officials and the attending physician, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez today refused to attend the burial in Potter's field of a tiny body labeled "Baby Boy Lopez."

The parents insist that the babe born to Mrs. Lopez Sunday was a girl and that the dead child was mistaken for their in a mixup at the Pottsville hospital.

Admitting a misunderstanding, hospital authorities said the baby was christened "Mary" by a priest before its sex was determined. This error was discovered subsequently by a nurse and the child died eight hours after birth, officials declared.

Entertaining Your Bridge Club

An afternoon bridge party, at which your guests are served at 5 o'clock, calls for a menu that is a cross between a tea and a supper. Dessert bridges have become very popular. To serve the dessert early in the afternoon when the guests first arrive, and then playing bridge during the afternoon, makes an early departure plan possible. The dessert serving has been used successfully for evening parties, the refreshment problem being taken care of at the very beginning of the evening.

MONEY FREELY LOANED

● HOUSEHOLD LOANS
Made strictly on your own security and signature; to finance personal needs; to meet emergency requirements; to buy equipment appliances and supplies; to take care of the many problems that only cash can solve.

● AUTO LOANS
You can borrow the money to buy a new or used car; to refinance the car you are now driving; to reduce your payments; to lower your costs; and you get the exact sum of money you sign up for, without advance charges or concealed mark-up.

● BARNYARD LOANS
For 22 years The City Loan has been catering to the financial needs of the Ohio Farmer; understands his requirements; knows how to solve his problems; enables him to buy and sell under most favorable conditions; carries him through non-productive seasons.

● SURETY LOANS
Friends, relatives and neighbors can now "go surety" for each other. Employers can now help their worthy employees financially, without actual outlay of cash. On loans of this class the surety or guarantor merely stands good for the principal. He assumes no responsibility whatever for interest or carrying charges.

● PLEDGE LOANS
Security-holders are given a chance to borrow money on their holdings. Owners of building and loan pass-books and certificates can also pledge these assets for borrowed money. This class of service is especially convenient for anybody who wishes to avoid sacrificing his holdings at current market levels.

● RENTAL LOANS
Owners of rented property needing funds for any purpose are enabled to assign their rentals as a basis of sound credit. Relations between owner and tenant are not disturbed. This type of financing is becoming popular, and is now offered to owners of real estate all over Ohio.

Free use of credit by the rank and file of the people of Ohio is one big step towards prosperity in this state.

The City Loan daily makes hundreds of loans—$25 to $1000 each—thereby supplying the needs of average families.

But whether you borrow from The City Loan or elsewhere, you can aid recovery by freely using your credit.

Consider the type of loans made by The City Loan, and choose the one that suits you best.

Many Fine Results of River Program Viewed

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the last of three articles dealing with the proposed Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11.—While U. S. Army engineers compiled surveys for the 39 dams which will make up the Scioto-Sandusky water conservancy project, members of the association backing the project completed plans for what, it is believed, will be the most intensive program of conservation ever attempted in connection with a flood-control scheme.

Dozens of men, experts in water conservation, fish propagation, forestry, soil erosion control and game preservation are being enlisted as technical advisors so that use will be made of every possible feature of the reservoirs.

Prof. Raymond C. Osborne, of the zoology and entomology department of Ohio State University, in consulting with Alan Jordan, secretary of the association sponsoring the district, pointed out that the greatest amount of fish life in fresh water streams is within 12 feet of the top, where the most oxygen is available.

PRESERVE FISH
So when the reservoirs are systematically discharged early in January each year so as to be ready for flood waters, they will be discharged only to a depth of 12 feet, thus preserving the fish life.

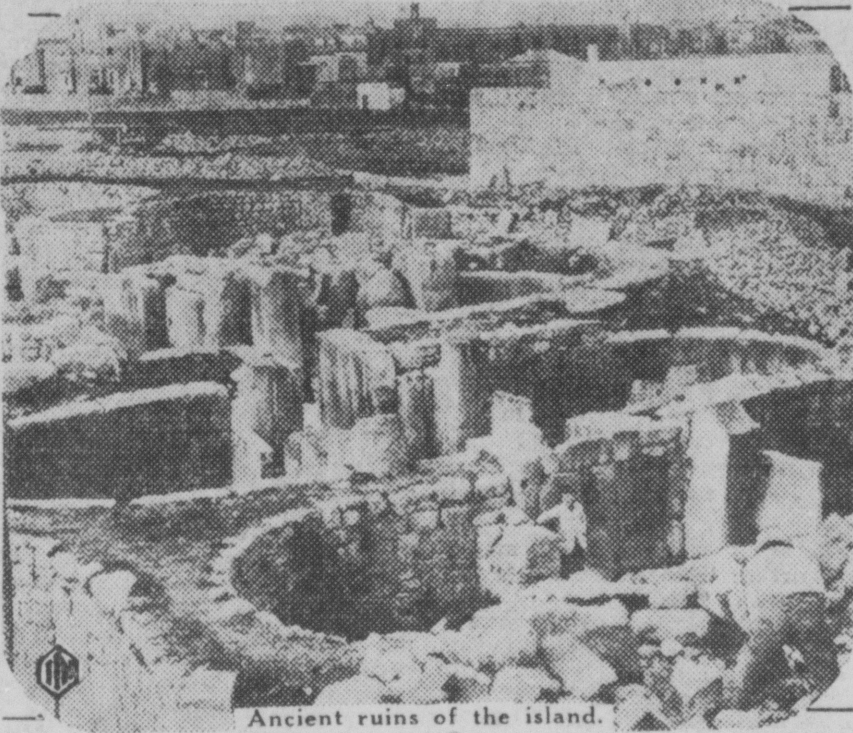

On April 1, when the spring floods are considered over, the flood gates, which have been slowly discharging impounded flood waters, will be closed, and the reservoir allowed to fill to 80 per cent capacity. The top 20 per cent will be used to take care of sudden summer floods, usually of only short but disastrous duration.

This impounded water can be released during the summer to furnish water for farm stock and

Tiny Malta Moves for Peace

Scene in Valletta, Malta.

Ancient ruins of the island.

Tiny Malta, British Mediterranean outpost, which has a history tracing back to ancient times, is making the front pages again, this time in a great stride toward peace. The island's 220,000 inhabitants have been informed that Maltese again will be the official language of the island, replacing Italian and English in all the schools and law courts. Climaxing controversies between the British island officials and the strongly entrenched church with its Italian-favoring Nationalists, the constitution has been suspended three times since 1930. England is said to be seeking to win the native Maltese from a pro-Italian point of view by making Maltese the official language.

city reservoirs endangered in case of severe drouth. The dilution of streams with the dam water will also mitigate danger of pollution in dry weather.

Forest experts were consulted in an effort to determine the best method of caring for riparian property. The top 20 per cent of the reservoir's water capacity will account for about 50 per cent of the land that will have to be purchased.

As the reservoir will be completely full only in emergencies, facts of adjoining land will be inundated only for short periods.

PAY "DIVIDENDS"
The forest experts advised the planting of spruce, cottonwood, and other varieties of trees not damaged by occasional submersions. Within 10 years, reforestation of the reservoir land with such trees will begin making a return on the investment through the yield of paper for woodpulp, "dividends" which could be carried on from year to year by careful cutting.

Botanists calculate that forest

trees will give off six tons of water into the air for every ton of leaves produced. This evaporation, experts claim, along with the increased evaporation afforded by the reservoirs, would make for more regular rains.

The trees would also prevent erosion, and the control of land that is now being washed into streams is a vital factor in the success of the conservancy program. Unless the silt is stopped, the reservoirs would fill up and clog.

The cost of the project? No one knows. Only very crude estimates have been worked out at the present stage of the project, and they have been placed at the cost at $36,000,000.

A number of smaller reservoirs, subscribed to in part or whole by private interests may be included in the project once it gets under way.

Farmers whose property is being washed away by soil erosion probably will be enabled to finance small dams on their own farms. Cities which rest on banks of rivers involved in the project may also construct dams.

Age 13

Old enough for strong drugs?

What the doctors say about giving children a medicine of adult strength.

It is not wise to give a laxative of adult strength to a child, just because you give it less often or in less amounts.

Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing children can often be traced to this single mistake.

What to Give a Child

There is a better way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

Avoid all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month's too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule and the child is soon normal and happy again.

Something to Think About

Doctors advise liquid laxatives, and hospitals use the liquid form. And a child who has been constipated, and a little less each time until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

Give that headachy, bilious child California Syrup of Figs when constipated, and a little less each time until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

Constipation in children can be relieved, in this manner:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

JACKSON-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

Harold Hoover tied with Roy Seube of Walnut-twp for first prize on their plans for arranging of the county school exhibit in the Armory during the Pumpkin Show.

John Speakman, Thomas Downing, Lloyd Finley, Mary Hoover, Mr. Lampe, Mr. Downing, and Miss Rodeheffer attended the Ohio-Indiana football game last Saturday as guests of Ohio State Athletic association.

After interviewing salesmen of various companies, the senior class purchased their class rings of the Balfour Company.

Each member of the biology class is working on a project under the supervision of Mr. Lampe. At present the popular projects are collections of weed seed, butterflies, woods, insects, and leaves.

The Home Economics class is constructing laboratory outfits. An outfit consists of an apron, head band, and pot-holder, each made of unbleached muslin.

Before beginning their study of "As You Like It," the Sophomore class is studying the life of Shakespeare and the theatre of his day.

The high school glee clubs under the direction of Miss Rodeheffer are studying a unit on various forms used in musical composition. The ballad, anthem, aria, choral, chantey, hymn, madrigal, opera, and oratorio are being studied.

The folk songs of America and British Isles are being studied and sung by the pupils in the seventh and eighth grades.

CARDS MAY PART WITH ONE DEAN

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—In line with writing a little harmless blarney for the papers, all I know about this particular situation is what the eye sees and the ears suspect, the sum total of which is that St. Louis is liable to trade or sell one of the delirious Deans this winter, not necessarily for the league's good but for its own. It's all very simple. One Dean on a ball club is admirable; two Deans mean the thing that causes the average employer to shudder violently and reach briskly for the cyanide, namely, collective bargaining. In the course of time, it might even become intimidation. The Deans are not very well paid.

SETTLE DISPUTES

Any time, therefore, that Dizzy, the elder and odder, finds himself engaged in a difference of opinion with the management over the tearing up of a contract or a uniform, he can settle the situation in a few, well chosen words, thus: "Me and Paul, we're going home."

The uniform, by the way, is a little cheaper, but not much. It is my understanding that Dizzy drew $7,500 for his season's work and Paul $4,500.

In any case, the management would not want the Deans to go home, for then the management would have very little to manage. The Deans won 49 games during the regular season, about half the production of the club in winning the National league pennant. In the World series just concluded, four games were necessary to carry off the championship. The Deans won four games. Their position, therefore, is practically unassailable. All they have to do is stop pitching and the ball club stops winning and, ipso facto, hocus pocus and per se, the customer stops coming.

I'm aware, of course, that the Deans lost one of these arguments late in the summer when an exhibition date slipped Dizzy's mind, or maybe I have that wrong. Maybe it was the mind that slipped. Anyhow, they were fined $100 and had to say they'd be very good hereafter. But, after what happened at the close of the season and in the series, I fear that sort of thing will now run for E. Pluribus Sweeney, although I see where Mr. Sam Ewason, the owner, doesn't agree with me.

"JUST A BREEZE"

He expressed perfect confidence, in fact, in being able to sign the Deans for next year without the slightest trouble.

"Just a breeze," said he. But so is a strike out.

Shoes of the Middle Ages

During the Middle Ages most shoes had soft uppers, sometimes closed to the ankle or higher, but frequently open down the front and laced over with decorative straps. Stocking boots, woven gaiter shoes and simple leather soles sewed to the end of tight were also worn. Tops of high shoes and boots were often folded over or trimmed with fur. During the Thirteenth century pointed toes of shoes increased in length, when the points were sometimes turned up and back and tied to a garter just below the knee. High wooden clogs were worn to increase the height. In the last quarter of the Fifteenth century pointed toes began to be succeeded by round ones that later became broad and almost square.

Symbol of Apprenticeship

The apprentice system as constituted originated in England about the Twelfth century. At that time and for many generations there, after the symbol of apprenticeship was the quarter staff, or oak cudgel. All apprentices carried them. On special occasions they had parades, all bearing their quarter staffs.

They're Just Dizzy With Glee!

Are they happy? And how! Frankie Frisch, manager of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, and the star, J. H. (Dizzy) Dean, right, pose while celebrating their victory over the Detroit Tigers in the final game of the world series.

All-American Candidates Girded for Saturday's Grid Battles

The world series being history, Mr. Sports Fan now can pay undivided attention to the grid battles scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 13. Here are six All-American candidates who are sure to be heard from as Duke meets Georgia Tech at Durham, N. C.; Brown clashes with Harvard at Cambridge, and Southern California's Trojans travel to Pittsburgh to take on Pitt's strong eleven.

Buckeyes, Illini Meet 2nd Time

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11.—With the gay and colorful background for which Illinois homecomings are renowned and Red Grange, most famous of Illini players, as the guest of honor, Ohio State and Illinois will meet Saturday afternoon at Champaign for their twenty-first consecutive encounter.

The rivalry between the two schools started the year after Ohio State entered the Western Conference in 1913 and has continued annually without a break. During that time the Illini have won 10 contests, Ohio State nine and one ended in a tie. The all-time record between the two schools shows Illinois ahead 11 to 9 with two games deadlocked.

Close followers of the Buckeyes see little hope of being able to help the standing next Saturday. They point to Illinois' greater experience, the fact that Illini have two games under their belt, a veteran line, and the country's greatest forward passer in Jack Beynon. Against this Ohio has played only one game, has a green line, and is attempting to master a brand new system of play.

The Ohio State-Illinois record is as follows:

1902 Illinois 0	Ohio State 0
1904 Illinois 46	Ohio State 0
1914 Illinois 37	Ohio State 0
1915 Illinois 3	Ohio State 3
1916 Illinois 6	Ohio State 7
1917 Illinois 0	Ohio State 13
1918 Illinois 13	Ohio State 0
1919 Illinois 9	Ohio State 7
1920 Illinois 0	Ohio State 7
1921 Illinois 7	Ohio State 0
1922 Illinois 3	Ohio State 6
1923 Illinois 9	Ohio State 0
1924 Illinois 7	Ohio State 0
1925 Illinois 14	Ohio State 9
1926 Illinois 6	Ohio State 7
1927 Illinois 13	Ohio State 0
1928 Illinois 8	Ohio State 0
1929 Illinois 27	Ohio State 0
1930 Illinois 9	Ohio State 12
1931 Illinois 0	Ohio State 10
1932 Illinois 0	Ohio State 3
1933 Illinois 6	Ohio State 7
Games won:
Illinois 11	Ohio State 9
Tied 2.

The world series is over, thus settling the question of each player's remuneration.

INJURIES HARASS OHIO U. GRIDDERS

ATHENS, Oct. 11.—Demon Injury reared its ugly head in the midst of the Ohio University Bobcats during the past week to the extent that the Bobcats' roar will be very hoarse when they set out to meet Georgetown at Ohio Stadium Saturday.

At the last roll call of the Ohio "crockery" list there were found to be no less than seven varsity men present. Willis, quarterback, has been on the list for the past three weeks, and possibly will continue there for the remainder of the season. Schmidt, halfback, had his shoulder thrown out of place in the Indiana game, and will see no action for at least another week. Stephan, center, who was also injured in the Hoosier tilt is still out of full uniform. Rapp is nursing a bad shoulder that has kept him away from hard work. Boyer, tackle, Dunn, fullback, and Peasapan, tailback, are three others who are injured in random spots.

Coach Peden has been sending his men along at a strenuous pace in the past two weeks, but his work has been considerably hampered by the fact that he has not had the opportunity to work a starting team as a single unit. His reserves are carrying the load of heavy drills, and from a score of their performances the varsity men may find it more than a little difficult to regain their posts.

The reserves will probably do most of the playing this week for more casualties in the first ranks would just about break the Bobcats who start out on a six-weeks' program which is one of the greatest heart-testers a Green and White eleven has ever faced. Miami, Marshall, West Virginia, Cincinnati, Dayton, and Ohio Wesleyan are met on successive Saturdays. That is a heavy sea to sail with a brig in the condition of the present Ohio football ship.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

WESLEYAN GOES SOUTH

Wide awake upturners may get a view of the Ohio Wesleyan football team coming through this city either late tonight or early Friday. The Bishops will be enroute to Huntington, W. Va., where they will tangle with Marshall college's team on Saturday. Marshall is tough, too. The big job faced by the Delaware eleven will be to stop John Zontini, a hard hitting back.

FAIR MAY HELP

The highschool Tigers, unable to score in their three grid games, go to Grandview Friday afternoon and hope to make a better showing. Coach Pete Berberholz blamed part of last week's debacle at Marysville to the Pumpkin Show festivities but this week hopes to capitalize on Grandview also having a street fair. Roth is expected to take George Davis' place at tackle since the latter has been declared ineligible because of grades.

SMITH-BOUCHER

The return of Jack Smith, Hamilton flash, to the Ohio State backfield makes it certain that Coach Francis Schmidt will have a threat in the lineup at all times. Franklin Boucher looked like a million last week against Indiana and may get the starting call over Smith at Illinois Saturday. Ohio is apparently not given much of a chance by prognosticators but we're going to pick them anyway just for the sake of controversy.

THE RIDGE

Paul Kibler and family moved last Friday from the late Gilbert Smith property to the John Barr property on the Lancaster-pk near Dutch Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hartman are attending the World's Fair, Chicago, this week.

E. D. Marburger and family visited Sunday with Oscar Atwood near Kingston.

Hauptmann's Lawyer Prepares Battle To Prevent Transfer To New Jersey

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—What promises to be one of the most desperate legal battles of all time—a fight to prevent the state of New Jersey from extraditing Bruno Richard Hauptmann to stand trial on a charge of murdering the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was to begin today in Bronx supreme court.

At the moment the taciturn alien carpenter and his counsel, James M. Pawcett, enter the courtroom, the claim of New Jersey to the prisoner becomes active and valid.

Pawcett, however, planned to move immediately for a writ of habeas corpus and since the granting of this writ is virtually mandatory, a delay of some length is almost certain to occur.

RUSHED TO NEW YORK

The extradition warrant which Governor Lehman signed last night, was rushed to New York from Albany by special messenger.

In addition Pawcett has announced his intention of asking Supreme Court Justice Hammer for a week's postponement to prepare his argument on the writ, and if, in the end, the writ is denied, the court's ruling can be appealed and another delay result.

The extradition warrant was to be delivered personally to District Attorney Foley of the Bronx today before the opening of court, today and it was no secret that when the entire proceedings are over the Bronx authorities will be considerably relieved. As one official put it:

"The sooner we get rid of Hauptmann the better. We're only trying to keep him alive until he can be handed over to New Jersey. Then let them worry about the job of keeping him from doing the ditch act."

"The ditch act," it appeared, is a kind of trade name for suicide. The official continued:

"We have a man sitting on a stool outside Hauptmann's cell 24 hours a day. We're so afraid Hauptmann may go out on us that we have another man come around every two hours to see that the man on the stool doesn't fall asleep."

For this and other reasons it seemed certain that Bronx authorities would cooperate with New Jersey in every way to avoid delay in extraditing Hauptmann.

Just what plans New Jersey had to prevent a delay remained shrouded in mystery. But the impression prevailed that it would be at least a week before Hauptmann could be taken to the Hunterdon-co jail in Flemington, N. J.

His testimony is said by authorities to form the last link in the chain of evidence binding Hauptmann to the actual abduction.

By International News Service.
A suspected accomplice of Petrus Kalamen, cold-blooded assassin of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France, escaped into the fastnesses of Fontainebleau forest today while being questioned by gendarmes on the station platform.

He was carrying a revolver when accosted, and his passport was made out in the name of Sylvestre Chahny, one of the two men who stayed with Kalamen at an Aix-En-Provence hotel shortly before the assassinations. Widespread search was launched for him.

Meanwhile, the widowed Queen Marie of Yugoslavia journeyed to Paris from the scene of the crime and joined her son, the new King Peter, whom she fears will meet the same fate as his father at the hands of political extremists.

The body of Barthou was brought to Paris for a national funeral while the remains of Alexander continued the sea journey to Yugoslavia aboard a warship.

In Belgrade, the new Yugoslav regency took firm measures to quell political dissidence in the kingdom by whipping together a strong national concentration government.

"We expect to be married right after we get the license," Edna told reporters. "We had planned a pretty celebration if the Tigers won the world championship, but now it's going to be quiet."

about 3:30 o'clock on the pretext of repairing a telephone, the maid related. An hour later he cut the telephone wires, hastily drew a pistol and, covering both Mrs. Stoll and the maid, bound the servant.

STRUCK WITH PIPE

Then he turned to Mrs. Stoll, clad in negligee, beat her on the head with a length of pipe, forced a gag into her mouth and started out the door with her. Mrs. Willett was near collapse as she told the story.

"If Berry comes, 'I'll kill him,'" the servant quoted the lone snatcher as having threatened.

Mrs. Stoll persuaded the kidnaper to loosen her gag and asked him to get her a blue and white checkered coat which he threw across her shoulders.

Then while she kicked viciously but futilely he picked her up and carried her to a small new coupe parked outside.

There was no one else in the automobile. Of that Mrs. Willett was certain.

Immediately he discovered his wife of five years was missing Stoll rushed to a neighbor's home and telephoned police. When he returned to his own home he found the ransom note on a bed in an upstairs room.

The missive was typewritten and bore detailed instructions for the Stoll family to follow in establishing contact.

The ransom demand had been set at $30,000 in one part of the note, according to reports, but this had been crossed out with x's and $50,000 was written in.

It was reliably reported also that the writer threatened to kidnap William A. Stoll, Berry's brother and oil firm partner and president of the Louisville Board of Trade, unless the ransom demands were promptly met.

Police and federal department of justice agents refused to confirm these reports or reveal the note, however.

POLICE ORDERED OUT

Mayor Neville Miller ordered out for duty every policeman and detective on the city police force "until the kidnaper is found."

Direction of the widespread hunt soon fell into the hands of the department of justice agents, and it was reported that J. Edgar Hoover, their chief, was either here or enroute here from Washington to take personal command of the search and investigation.

21 OUT OF 23 ST. LOUIS CARDINALS SMOKE CAMELS!

by FRANK FRISCH

They sure made it hot for us this year, but the Cardinals came through in great style clear to the end when we needed every ounce of energy to win. We needed it—and we had it. There's the story in a nutshell. It seems as though the team line up just as well on their smoking habits as they do on the ball field. Here's our line-up on smoking: 21 out of 23 of the Cardinals prefer Camels.

PLAYER-MANAGER—Frankie Frisch of the World Champion Cardinals.

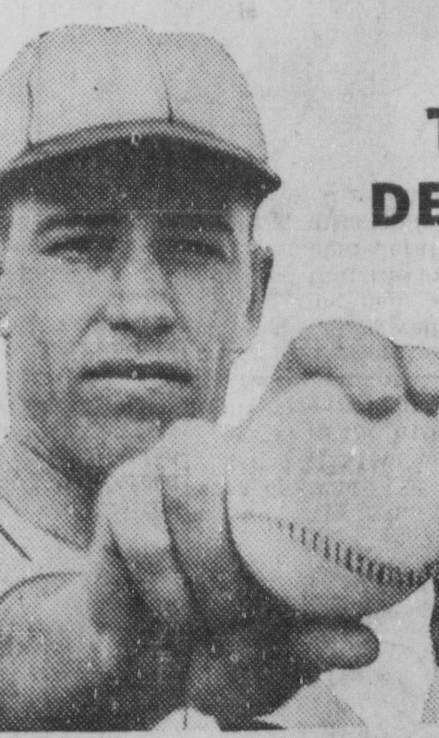

"DUCKY" MEDWICK: (Left) "A Camel takes away the tired feeling as soon as I leave the field, turns on my 'pep' again."

"PEPPER" MARTIN: (Right) "I like Camels because when I light one I can actually feel all tiredness slip away."

PAUL DEAN says: "Smoking a Camel gives me the feeling of having more energy. Camels never give me jumpy nerves or leave a 'cigarette' aftertaste!"

Conservative Bankers Anxious on Proposed Central Bank System

WASHINGTON — When President Roosevelt addresses the approaching convention of the American Bankers Association, one thought will be uppermost in the minds of his audience:

"Will he give any inkling of his attitude on a central bank?"

This is the one issue that has the financial boys, big and small, jittery.

Their fright over a move for a Government controlled central bank at the next session of Congress even exceeds their fears of further inflationary measures, an unbalanced budget, or continued heavy emergency expenditures.

Every conceivable wile and strategy has been resorted to by the banking community to obtain a private expression of the President's views on the question. They have been unsuccessful.

The reason is simple. The President has not yet made up his mind.

But the mere fact that he is seriously studying the matter, is definitely not hostile to the project, sends cold shivers up and down financial spines.

Cleavage

In inner banking circles there is a sharp cleavage of opinion as to the public policy that should be pursued on the issue.

One group, made up chiefly of big, Torv, Federal Reserve System bankers, is for an aggressive challenge to the President on his entire monetary policy.

The recent tirade of the Federal Reserve Council was a display of this attitude.

Accustomed for so many years to dominate the fiscal affairs of the country, it rolls these money potentates to the wall to sit by, unconsulted by the White House, taking, instead of giving, orders.

The second group, among them Francis M. Law, President of the American Bankers Association, is for a soft-treading, soft-speaking, attitude toward the President.

Law and his associates are bitterly critical of the Reserve Council's outbreak.

They counsel "playing ball" with the Administration, with that delicate and fair to cooperate will merely further antagonize the country and the President, inevitably lead to drastic measures.

"The President hasn't got it in for us, and we haven't got it in for him," Lew tells his banker-friends. "And, furthermore, if Roosevelt falls, we might get some one worse."

Careful

Secretary Henry Wallace, who in his shy, boyish way is proud of his high praise literary critics bestow on his recent book, encountered a friend who is writing a volume criticizing Administration policies, particularly agricultural.

"How is the book going?" Wallace asked.

"Oh, it's going along."

"Well don't let it go too far," Wallace replied with a grin.

New Reed

Battle-scarred Jim Reed is in the political arena again, and no one in the Midwest is being watched more closely by the political prognosticators of the Administration.

Reed, can, if he wants to, wreck Democratic chances to capture a Republican Senate seat in Missouri.

The reason for Jim's change of heart, his constant vituperation against the New Deal, has puzzled old Senatorial friends who know him as a rabid campaigner for the under dog.

Jira jumped from the modest salary of a Senator to the status of a millionaire.

First, he made a fair-sized fortune practicing law. On top of this, his brother died leaving him several public utility companies in Iowa. Finally, his new wife has made over a million as a big-time dressmaker.

A real nouveau riche, any Government move to dip into income makes him see red.

That may explain his statement that there is no real unemployment

CITY MUST CUT 1935 EXPENSE BY $18,000

Budget Ordinance Asks $57,235.59. Take Chance On Commission

ECONOMY IS NEEDED

Unpaid Water Bill Facing City Treasury

Council, with considerable apprehension, approved the city's budget for 1935 at its meeting Wednesday evening and trusted to luck that enough money can be obtained from the city budget commission, Auditor Cliff White, Treasurer Earl Hoffman, and Prosecutor Ray Davis, to operate through the year.

The figures in the budget ordinance, were agreed upon after lengthy meetings of the finance committee of council and Clerk Fred Nicholas.

A total of $57,235.59 is asked by council to operate through 1935. The various funds include $34,000 general government, $18,735 sinking fund and $4,500 library.

MUST ECONOMIZE

The budget for this year amounted to about $71,000 so the city will be forced to operate on an economy basis from now on.

President of Council John C. Goeller said: "We have high hopes that fines and licenses from the mayor's court, receipts from Berger hospital and tax money coming into the city from beer and liquors will help take care of the difference in these figures."

No one is certain how much money will be available from the budget commission.

At the present time if the water bill of $2,101.56 was paid the general fund would show a deficit.

The bill for the remainder of the year would make the deficit larger. In the general fund now is found $1,260.61. Other funds, according to Ben H. Gordon, chairman of the finance committee, have the following balances: Library, $2,711.22; auto street repair, $558.46; gasoline tax, $1,233.91; hospital, $1,330.80. These balances were dated Wednesday.

$18,000 LESS

City officials have been told by T. D. Krinn, of the auditor's office that they must operate in 1935 on $18,000 less than the present year.

Just how this will be done is beyond some of the officials.

Mayor W. B. Cady's collections during September amounted to: fines, $65.40; licenses, $4; fees, $8.70; bonds, $40, total, $118.10.

HOSPITAL FIGURES HEARD BY COUNCIL

Expenses For Three Months Amounted To $4,050, With Receipts $2,633.

Operating expenses at Berger hospital surpassed receipts $4,050.05 to $2,633.45 for the three month period, July, August and September, according to a report to council Wednesday evening by Miss Ethel Kirchofer, superintendent.

September's receipts amounted to $1,022.42.

The hospital's expenses during the period include: provisions, $711.25; laundry, $195.15; fuel and light, $125.62; medical and surgical supplies, $635.86; salaries, $2,137.17; other supplies, $245.

Miss Kirchofer's report disclosed further information. On July 1 there were seven patients in the hospital. Those admitted during the three months, 121; treated, 146; discharged, 122; deaths, 6; births, 17; operations, 36; days care, 878.

NEW JERSEY READY TO MOVE SUSPECT

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was technically placed in the custody of the New Jersey authorities today when the warrant of extradition, signed by Governor Herbert H. Lehman at Albany, was served on the Lindbergh case prisoner in the Bronx county court.

This action took place when Hauptmann was brought into the court this morning where he was scheduled to go on trial on a charge of extorting $50,000 ransom from Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The extortion case was to be postponed, however, in order to let the New Jersey officials take the prisoner to that state to try him for murder in connection with the baby Lindbergh kidnapping.

After the extradition warrant was served upon him, Hauptmann was temporarily returned to the custody of the Bronx-co sheriff.

A detail of seventeen New Jersey state troopers are being held in readiness in the Bronx to escort Hauptmann to the jail at Flemington, N. J., as soon as all the legal technicalities in New York are completed.

Defense Attorney Fawcett told the court he wanted Hauptmann held in New York for "a reasonable length of time" so he could institute habeas corpus proceedings.

Fawcett intended to go before Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer with his application for the writ of habeas corpus.

Village Dictator Signs Bonds For Nine Neighbors

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11.—The dictator of Gore, Ohio, a small village in the Hocking-co hills, was successful today in obtaining release of nine of its men after the tiny town was depopulated of half of its man-power yesterday when federal agents arrested the men for operating stills.

When word got about the village that the agents had made the arrests and brought the men here, their women folk declared that "we'll have to tell Mr. Nutter about this." J. J. Nutter owns Gore's retail, wholesale, professional and general business.

So, Nutter came to the capital, appeared at the offices of U. S. Commissioner Joseph W. Horner and provided bonds of $500 each for the men so that life in the small village could resume its natural course. The men must await action of the federal grand jury.

Gore is in the northeastern corner of Hocking-co, not far from New Straitsville, the so-called "moonshine capital" of Ohio. In the Gore raids, the agents claimed they confiscated four stills, 200 gallons of alleged whisky and destroyed a large quantity of mash.

Women, 60 and 61, "Hike" From West to Ask Help Of President Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A vivid story of courage, adventure and endurance was brought to President Roosevelt's office door today by two women, one 60 and the other 61, who hitch-hiked (and not thumbed) their way here from their homes in Livingston, Mont., with only $14 of borrowed money between them.

Both had difficulties in which they wanted Mr. Roosevelt's advice. His scheduled engagements prevented him from seeing them but two members of his staff recorded their story for his consideration.

They left their homes September 26 practically as runaways "because we didn't tell our relatives."

They said the "best way to get rid of it is to trudge along and not thumb a request." They said the motorists and truck drivers and housewives along their route "were jewels" in giving them rides, food and beds and sometimes small change.

Mrs. Josephine Kline, 60, wants the president to help her recover some property she believes was wrongfully taken from her. Mrs. Helen Sherwood, 61, wants help in her effort to oust tenants on her fruit and truck farm.

Satisfied with their reception at the executive offices the two "run-aways" will hitch-hike the 2,140 miles back to Livingston within a few days.

ILL WITH COLD

Mrs. Stoll was ill with a severe cold and her temperature shortly before the abduction was 103, her frantic husband, Berry V. Stoll, revealed today.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—Search for the ruthless kidnaper of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll was concentrated today in a woodland area bordering Lake Louisville, 30 miles east of here and eight miles from the Stoll home.

A farmer reported seeing a woman fighting a man in an automobile in that vicinity about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon; two girls said they passed an automobile containing a woman slumped down in the seat as if ill; and search of lake cottages yielded signs that two had been entered last night.

USE STATE POLICE

As the morning wore on police admitted they were without definite leads. The new state police force was called into action for the first time, being placed at the disposal of the Louisville authorities by Adj.-Gen. H. H. Denhardt.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—Desperate efforts were made today to establish contact with the kidnapers of pretty Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, 26, as twelve hours after she was brutally beaten, bound and abducted from her suburban home here her fate remained shrouded in mystery.

In compliance with a note found in the home after the abduction a ransom reported to be $50,000 was understood to be ready for delivery to the kidnapers.

Two friends of the missing woman's husband, Berry V. Stoll, wealthy vice president of the Stoll Refining company, were holding the ransom cash at a residence, the whereabouts of which was held a secret, according to well informed sources.

SACKETT'S NIECE

Mrs. Stoll, a comely brunette, is the niece of Frederick Sackett, former United States senator and former ambassador to Germany. The Stolls are prominent in social circles here.

The ransom note, typewritten and lengthy, was generally believed to contain threats against other members of the family of oil manufacturers. Its contents were regarded as so important that federal agents refused to make the letter public.

Belief varied as to whether the young victim was kidnapped as an act of vindictiveness vented against her wealthy husband or was executed by a well-organized gang only to collect the ransom money.

Stoll himself discovered the abduction when he returned to his residence overlooking the Ohio river north of here at 5 o'clock last evening.

The husband found a maid, Mrs. Fowler Willett, 24, gagged and tied to a chair. He hastily freed her and she told him of the kidnapping of his wife.

CITY ASKED TO PAY PART OF $501 BILL

An effort to have council assume at least part of the expense caused by special police during Pumpkin Show week was made Wednesday evening by Robert G. Colville, treasurer of the show. The matter was placed in the hands of the finance committee for consideration.

Mr. Colville reported that special police, financed entirely by the show society, cost $501.10. Sixty-four men, operating in different shifts, were used during the week.

It is uncertain what part of the expense can be handled by the city since a dark picture of its financial outlook was painted at the meeting.

PARENTS REFUSE TO BELIEVE BABY DEAD MIX-UP IS CHARGED

POFFSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 11.—Still convinced that their now-born child is alive despite the death of hospital officials and the attending physician, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez, today refused to attend the burial in Potter's field of a tiny body labeled "Baby Boy Lopez."

The parents insist that the baby born to Mrs. Lopez Sunday was a girl and that the dead child was mistaken for their in a mix-up at the Pottsville hospital.

Admitting a misunderstanding, hospital authorities said the baby was christened "Mary" by a priest before the sex was determined. This error was discovered subsequently by a nurse and the child died eight hours after birth, officials declared.

Assassination of King Alexander I, of Yugoslavia, and Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, in Marseilles, France, recalls the tense hour back in 1914 following the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand and Countess Sophie of Austria, in Sarajevo. While the 1914 tragedy precipitated the World war, observers do not believe the slaying of King Alexander and Barthou will have any serious political repercussions, except possibly a movement against the Yugoslavia dictatorship. Archduke Ferdinand and Countess Sophie are shown, left, in Sarajevo on the day of the tragedy. Right, Gavrilo Princip, the assassin, as he was arrested by police.

Thus far the lunch room has shown an increased business over last year. Mrs. Bowers estimates that the finances are breaking even.

For several years Walnut has had school through the Pumpkin Show. This year because of lack of attendance and inattention of former years their students were dismissed Friday.

Even persons disinterested at the start become enthused from the conversation so prevalent and the furore of preparations.

People go for many reasons: some to see acquaintances seen only on such occasions; some to see little Johnny's wonderful drawing or Mary Ann's English composition. Others go for rides, side-shows and free attractions. Some go for the educational features and agricultural exhibits; some just to eat candy, ice cream and hot dogs.

Not a few go because everybody else is there. All in all it makes for closer community life, better farm products and increased trade in the city.

CHAPEL PROGRAM
Chapel was opened with the assembly singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." ## DARBY-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

Many patrons have expressed themselves as having been pleased with our display at the Pumpkin Show.

Donald Iles has transferred from room one to Columbus.

One new pupil has been added to room three and one to room four.

Marvone Ridgway of the class of '33, has returned to school to do some work in the commercial department.

The boys won a shutout game, 7 to 0, at Scioto last Friday. The girls were defeated in their game.

The classes in American History and English IV attended the show "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" last week at Loew's Ohio.

The seniors are "sporting" their new rings and pins which came last Friday.

Business Manager Wendell Wardell reports that the subscriptions to the school paper, "The Darby Cantor," are coming in rather slowly. We must not neglect turning in our subscriptions because it will soon be time for the second issue and the Editor-in-chief, Bruce Ridgway, assured us "that we will be missing something if we miss any numbers."

The last week of the first six-weeks period is here and the report cards will be sent home for the first time this new term next Wednesday. Now is the time for parents to get in touch with the teachers and work with them in an effort to correct any difficulties revealed by the cards.

The new books purchased by the Board of Education from the Follett Co., Chicago, have arrived and have been catalogued and shelved ready for use. The Ohio Pupils' Reading Circle books have also arrived and been placed in the hands of the teacher for circulation. We hope all the pupils will read enough to earn a certificate this year.

You can tell a successful business man. He isn't ashamed to add up the dinner check.

Entertaining Your Bridge Club

An afternoon bridge party, at which your guests are served at 5 o'clock, calls for a menu that is a cross between a tea and a supper. Dessert bridges have become very popular. To serve the dessert early in the afternoon when the guests first arrive, and then playing bridge during the afternoon, makes an early departure plan possible. The dessert serving has been used successfully for evening parties, the refreshment problem being taken care of at the very beginning of the evening.

If the day is chilly, a hot serving, such as Creamed Sweetbreads and Almonds, or Creamed Chicken in patty shells, is very appetizing with a small tomato aspic salad. Here is the recipe for the chicken, sweetbread and mushroom salad if you would like to try it.

1 C. canned mushrooms

Many Fine Results of River Program Viewed

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the last of three articles dealing with the proposed Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11.—While U. S. Army engineers compiled surveys for the 30 dams which will make up the Scioto-Sandusky water conservancy project, members of the association backing the project completed plans for what, it is believed, will be the most intensive program of conservation ever attempted in connection with a flood-control scheme.

Dozens of men, experts in water conservation, fish propagation, forestry, soil erosion control and game preservation are being enlisted as technical advisors so that use will be made of every possible feature of the reservoirs.

Prof. Raymond C. Osborne, of the zoology and entomology department of Ohio State University, in consulting with Alan Jordan, secretary of the association sponsoring the district, pointed out that the greatest amount of fish life in fresh water streams is within 12 feet of the top, where the most oxygen is available.

PRESERVE FISH
So when the reservoirs are systematically discharged early in January each year so as to be ready for flood waters, they will be discharged only to a depth of 12 feet, thus preserving the fish life.

On April 1, when the spring floods are considered over, the flood gates, which have been slowly discharging impounded flood waters, will be closed, and the reservoir allowed to fill to 80 per cent capacity. The top 20 per cent will be used to take care of sudden summer floods, usually of only short, but disastrous duration. This impounded water can be released during the summer to furnish water for farm stock and

Tiny Malta Moves for Peace

Scene in Valletta, Malta.

Ancient ruins of the island.

Tiny Malta, British Mediterranean outpost, which has a history tracing back to ancient times, is making the front pages again, this time in a great stride toward peace. The island's 220,000 inhabitants have been informed that Maltese again will be the official language of the island, replacing Italian and English in all the schools and law courts. Climaxing controversies between the British island officials and the strongly entrenched church with its Italian-favoring Nationalists, the constitution has been suspended three times since 1930. England is said to be seeking to win the native Maltese from a pro-Italian point of view by making Maltese the official language.

city reservoirs endangered in case of severe drought. The dilution of streams with the dam water will also mitigate danger of pollution in dry weather.

Forest experts were consulted in an effort to determine the best method of caring for riparian property. The top 20 per cent of the reservoir's water capacity will account for about 50 per cent of the land that will have to be purchased.

As the reservoir will be completely full only in emergencies, areas of adjoining land will be inundated only for short periods.

PAY "DIVIDENDS"
The forest experts advised the planting of spruce, cottonwood, and other varieties of trees not damaged by occasional submersions. Within 10 years, reforestation of the reservoir land with such trees will begin making a return on the investment through the yield of paper for woodpulp, "dividends" which could be carried on from year to year by careful cutting.

Botanists calculate that forest

trees will give off six tons of water into the air for every ton of leaves produced. This evaporation, experts claim, along with the increased evaporation afforded by the reservoirs, would make for more regular rains.

The trees would also prevent erosion, and the control of land that is now being washed into streams is a vital factor in the success of the conservancy program. Unless the silt is stopped, the reservoirs would fill up and go.

The cost of the project? No one knows. Only very crude estimates have been worked out at the present stage of the project, and they have been placed at cost at $38,000,000.

A number of smaller reservoirs, subscribed to in part or whole by private interests may be included in the project once it gets under way. Farmers whose property is being washed away by soil erosion probably will be enabled to finance small dams on their own farms. Cities which rest on banks of rivers involved in the project may also construct dams.

JACKSON-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

Harold Hoover tied with Roy Seube of Walnut-twp for first prize on their plans for arranging of the county school exhibit in the Armory during the Pumpkin Show.

John Speakman, Thomas Downing, Lloyd Finley, Mary Hoover, Mr. Lample, Mr. Downing, and Miss Rodeheffer attended the Ohio-Indiana football game last Saturday as guests of Ohio State Athletic association.

After interviewing salesmen of various companies, the senior class purchased their class rings of the Balfour Company.

Each member of the biology class is working on a project under the supervision of Mr. Lample. At present the popular projects are collections of weed seed, butterflies, woods, insects, and leaves.

The Home Economics class is constructing laboratory outfits. An outfit consists of an apron, head band, and pot-holder, each made of unbleached muslin.

Before beginning their study of "As You Like It," the Sophomore class is studying the life of Shakespeare and the theatre of his day.

The high school glee clubs under the direction of Miss Rodeheffer are studying a unit on various forms used in musical composition. The ballad, anthem, aria, choral, chantey, hymn, madrigal, opera, and oratorio are being studied.

The folk songs of America and British Isles are being studied and sung by the pupils in the seventh and eighth grades.

All the English classes in the Junior and Senior High School except the Eight grade English are in charge of Miss Wood. The eighth grade English teacher is Supt. R. L. Barton. Nine girls are taking Advanced Home Economics under the guidance of Miss Wood. During the first month of school the Home Economics girls have canned fifty cans of fruits and vegetables. All raw materials except sugar have been furnished by the patrons of the school. These canned foods will be used during the next month for preparing food dishes for the breakfasts, luncheons and dinners. They have completed fruits and are now discussing and serving cereals and beverages for breakfast. The class hopes to complete the breakfast unit next week. Much of the time during September has been spent on designing the notebook covers for the Pumpkin Show.

The Junior-Senior English class is divided into four groups, each with a chairman in charge of making a literary map of England. This project teaches manual manipulation, color value, birthplaces of authors, practice in printing, evaluation of proportions, social responsibility and approval and co-operation for general good.

The seventh grade spelling class has one perfect scorer. Mary Stump. She has made a perfect grade every day for the first five weeks of school. Several other students have made perfect scores in spelling for one or two weeks but none have approached the record of Miss Stump.

The Freshman English class, besides working on English notebooks for display, has been studying speaking and writing paragraphs. Next week they will start studying Mark Twain's selections in Life and Literature-Book I.

The Sophomore English class has studied selections by A. Conan Doyle, Hawthorne, Poe, and Scott. They have also studied the different kinds of letters including formal notes, informal notes, friendly letters, and business letters and the proper use of each.

English Literature has been the subject of study in Senior English and the class has made summaries and outlines which include the time from 149 A. D. to the Elizabethan Period.

On October first the seniors ordered their class rings of the Herf-Jones Co., of Indianapolis, Ind. They have also signed up with Montrose for their pictures.

The Juniors, starting a new custom this year, for the first, were allowed to order and get their class rings. They also were ordered from the Herf-Jones Co.

Several classes of the High School are working very hard on different exhibits for the Pumpkin Show.

We have organized several volleyball leagues. The Freshman consist of one team, the Sophomores another, the Juniors another, and the Seniors another.

Thus far, the standing is, Freshmen have lost three games, Sophomores have won two games, lost one. The Juniors have won two games, lost one. The Seniors have won two games and lost one.

Age 13

Old enough for strong drugs?

What the doctors say about giving children a medicine of adult strength.

Something to Think About

Doctors advise liquid laxatives, and hospitals use the liquid form. And a child who has been convalescing in the hospital usually comes out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch.

Give that headachy, bilious child California Syrup of Figs when constipated, and a little less each time until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

Constipation in children can be relieved, in this manner:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

It is not wise to give a laxative of adult strength to a child, just because you give it less often or in less amounts.

Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing children can often be traced to this single mistake.

What to Give a Child

There is a better way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

Avoid all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule and the child is soon normal and happy again.

CARDS MAY PART WITH ONE DEAN

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—In line with writing a little harmless biography for the papers, all I know about this particular situation is what the eye sees and the ears hear, the sum total of which is that St. Louis is liable to trade or sell one of the delicious Deans this winter, not necessarily for the league's good but for its own. It's all very simple. One Dean on a ball club is admirable; two Deans mean the thing that causes the average employer to shudder violently and reach briskly for the cyanide, namely, collective bargaining. In the course of time, it might even become intimidation. The Deans are not very well paid.

SETTLE DISPUTES

Any time, therefore, that Dizzy, the older and odder, finds himself engaged in a difference of opinion with the management over the tearing up of a contract or a uniform, he can settle the situation in a few, well chosen words, thus: "Me and Paul, we're going home!"

The uniform, by the way, is a little cheaper, but not much. It is $7,500 for his season's work and Paul $1,500.

In any case, the management would not want the Deans to go home, for then the management would have very little to manage. The Deans won 49 games during the regular season, about half the production of the club in winning the National league pennant. In the World series just concluded, four games were necessary to carry off the championship. The Deans won four games. Their position, therefore, is practically unassailable. All they have to do is stop pitching and the ball club stops winning and ipso facto, hocus pocus and per se, the customer stops coming.

I'm aware, of course, that the Deans lost one of these arguments late in the summer when an exhibition date slipped Dizzy's mind, or maybe I have that wrong. Maybe it was the mind that slipped. Anyhow, they were fined $100 and had to say they'd be very good hereafter. But, after what happened at the close of the season and in the series, I fear that sort of thing will now run for E. Pluribus Sweeney, although I see where Mr. Sam Bredon, the owner, doesn't agree with me.

JUST A BREEZE

He expressed perfect confidence, in fact, in being able to sign the Deans for next year without the slightest trouble.

"Just a breeze," said he. But so is a strike out.

Shoes of the Middle Ages

During the Middle Ages most shoes had soft uppers, sometimes closed to the ankle or higher, but frequently open down the front and laced over with decorative straps. Stocking boots, wooden gaiter shoes and simple leather soles sewed to the end of tights were also worn. Tops of high shoes and boots were often folded over or fringed with fur. During the Thirteenth century pointed toes of shoes increased in length, when the points were sometimes turned up and back and tied to a garter just below the knee. High wooden clogs were worn to increase the height. In the last quarter of the Fifteenth century pointed toes began to be succeeded by round ones that later became broad and almost square.

Symbol of Apprenticeship

The apprentice system as constituted originated in England about the Twelfth century. At that time and for many generations thereafter the symbol of apprenticeship was the quarter staff, or oak cudgel. All apprentices carried them. On special occasions they had parades, all bearing their quarter staffs.

They're Just Dizzy With Glee!

Are they happy? And how! Frankie Frisch, manager of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, and the star, J. H. (Dizzy) Dean, right, pose while celebrating their victory over the Detroit Tigers in the final game of the world series.

All-American Candidates Girded for Saturday's Grid Battles

The world series being history, Mr. Sports Fan now can pay undivided attention to the grid battles scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 13. Here are six All-American candidates who are sure to be heard from as Duke meets Georgia Tech at Durham, N. C.; Brown clashes with Harvard at Cambridge, and Southern California's Trojans travel to Pittsburgh to take on Pitt's strong eleven.

Buckeyes, Illini Meet 2nd Time

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11.—With the gay and colorful background for which Illinois homecomings are renowned and Red Grange, most famous of Illini players, as the guest of honor, Ohio State and Illini will meet Saturday afternoon at Champaign for their twenty-first consecutive encounter.

The rivalry between the two schools started the year after Ohio State entered the Western Conference in 1913 and has continued annually without a break. During that time the Illini have won 10 contests, Ohio State nine and one ended in a tie. The all-time record between the two schools shows Illini ahead 11 to 9 with two games deadlocked.

Close followers of the Buckeyes see little hope of being able to help the standing next Saturday. They point to Illini's greater experience, the fact that Illini have two games under their belt, a veteran line, and the country's greatest forward passer in Jack Beynon. Against this Ohio has played only one game, has a green line, and is attempting to master a brand new system of play.

The Ohio State-Illinois record is as follows:

1902	Illinois 0	Ohio State 0
1904	Illinois 46	Ohio State 0
1914	Illinois 37	Ohio State 0
1915	Illinois 3	Ohio State 3
1916	Illinois 6	Ohio State 7
1917	Illinois 0	Ohio State 13
1918	Illinois 13	Ohio State 0
1919	Illinois 9	Ohio State 7
1920	Illinois 0	Ohio State 7
1921	Illinois 7	Ohio State 0
1922	Illinois 3	Ohio State 6
1923	Illinois 9	Ohio State 0
1924	Illinois 7	Ohio State 0
1925	Illinois 14	Ohio State 9
1926	Illinois 6	Ohio State 7
1927	Illinois 13	Ohio State 0
1928	Illinois 8	Ohio State 0
1929	Illinois 27	Ohio State 12
1930	Illinois 9	Ohio State 40
1931	Illinois 0	Ohio State 3
1932	Illinois 0	Ohio State 7
1933	Illinois 6	Ohio State 2
Games won:	Illinois 11	Ohio State 9
Tied 2

The world series is over, thus settling the question of each player's remuneration.

Winner of the national women's golf championship for the third consecutive year by defeating Miss Dorothy Traugott of California, 2 and 1, in the finals at Philadelphia, Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, proudly exhibits the trophy emblematic of the title she won.

INJURIES HARASS OHIO U. GRIDDEERS

ATHENS, Oct. 11.—Deanon Injury reared its ugly head in the midst of the Ohio University Bobcats during the past week to the extent that the Bobcats' roar will be very hoarse when they set out to meet Georgetown at Ohio Stadium Saturday.

At the last roll call of the Ohio "crookery" list there were found to be no less than seven varsity men present. Willis, quarterback, has been on the list for the past three weeks, and possibly will continue there for the remainder of the season. Schmidt, halfback, had his shoulder thrown out of place in the Indiana game, and will see no action for at least another week. Stephan, center, who was also injured in the Hoosier tilt is still out in the condition of the present Ohio bad shoulder that has kept him away from hard work. Boyer, tackle, Dunn, fullback, and Pausanias, tailback, are three others who are injured in random spots.

Couch Feden has been sending his men along at a strenuous pace in the past two weeks, but his work has been considerably hampered by the fact that he has not had the opportunity to work a starting team as a single unit. His reserves are carrying the load of heavy drills, and for a some of their performances the varsity men may find it more than a little difficult to regain their posts.

The reserves will probably do most of the playing this week for more casualties in the first ranks would just about break the Bobcats who start out on a six-weeks program which is one of the greatest heart-testers a Green and White eleven has ever faced. Miami, Marshall, West Virginia, Cincinnati, Dayton, and Ohio Wesleyan are met on successive Saturdays. That is a heavy sea to sail with a brig in the condition of the present Ohio football ship.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

WE SLEEVAN GOES SOUTH

Wide awake upturners may get a view of the Ohio Wesleyan football team coming through this city either late tonight or early Friday. The Bishops will be enroute to Huntington, W. Va., where they will tangle with Marshall college's team on Saturday. Marshall is tough, too. The big job faced by the Delaware eleven will be to stop John Zontini, a hard hitting back

FAIR MAY HELP

The highschool Tigers, unable to score in their three grid games, go to Grandview Friday afternoon and hope to make a better showing. Coach Pete Berberholz blamed part of last week's debacle at Marysville to the Pumpkin Show festivities but this week hopes to capitalize on Grandview also having a street fair. Roth is expected to take George Davis' place at tackle since the latter has been declared ineligible because of grades.

SMITH-BOUCHER

The return of Jack Smith, Hamilton fleeth, to the Ohio State backfield makes it certain that Coach Francis Schmidt will have a threat in the lineup at all times. Frank Smith Boucher looked like a million last week against Indiana and may get the starting call over Smith at Illinois Saturday. Ohio is apparently not given much of a chance by prognosticators but we're going to pick them anyway just for the sake of controversy.

THE RIDGE

Paul Kibler and family moved last Friday from the late Gilbert Smith property to the John Barr property on the Lancaster-pk near Dutch Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hartman are attending the World's Fair, Chicago, this week.

B. D. Marburger and family visited Sunday with Oscar Atwood near Kingston.

Hauptmann's Lawyer Prepares Battle To Prevent Transfer To New Jersey

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—What promises to be one of the most desperate legal battles of all time—a fight to prevent the state of New Jersey from extraditing Bruno Richard Hauptmann to stand trial on a charge of murdering the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—was to begin today in Bronx supreme court.

At the moment, the taciturn alien carpenter and his counsel, James M. Fawcett, enter the courtroom, the claim of New Jersey to the prisoner becomes active and valid.

Fawcett, however, planned to move immediately for a writ of habeas corpus and since the granting of this writ is virtually mandatory, a delay of some length is almost certain to occur.

RUSHED TO NEW YORK

The extradition warrant which Governor Lehman signed last night, was rushed to New York from Albany by special messenger. In addition, Fawcett has announced his intention of asking Supreme Court Justice Hamner for a week's postponement to prepare his argument on the writ, and if, in the end, the writ is denied, the court's ruling can be appealed and another delay result.

The extradition warrant was to be delivered personally to District Attorney Foley of the Bronx before the opening of court today and it was no secret that when the extradition proceedings are over the authorities will be considerably relieved. As one official put it:

"The sooner we get rid of Hauptmann the better. We're only trying to keep him alive until he can be handed over to New Jersey. Then let them worry about the job of keeping him from doing the ditch act."

"The ditch act," it appeared, is a kind of trade name for suicide. The official continued:

"We have a man sitting on a stool outside Hauptmann's cell 24 hours a day. We're so afraid Hauptmann may go out on us that we have another man come around every two hours to see that the man on the stool doesn't fall asleep."

For this and other reasons it seemed certain that Bronx authorities would cooperate with New Jersey in every way to avoid delay in extraditing Hauptmann.

Just what plans New Jersey had to prevent a delay remained shrouded in mystery. But the impression prevailed that it would be at least a week before Hauptmann could be taken to the Hunterdon-co jail in Flemington, N. J.

Links Hauptmann

Willard Whitehead

Willard Whitehead, left, 40-year-old Lambertville, N. J., painter, is shown leaving the Bronx, New York, jail, after he had allegedly identified Bruno Hauptmann as the man he saw in the vicinity of the Lindbergh estate at Hope, N. J., shortly before the kidnapping in 1931. His testimony is said by authorities to form the last link in the chain of evidence binding Hauptmann to the actual abduction.

CROATIAN MOB

Bologna, when he told the world that "war is in the air and may break out at any minute."

By International News Service.
A suspected accomplice of Petrus Kalmen, cold-blooded assassin of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France, escaped into the fastnesses of Fontainebleau forest today while being questioned by gendarmes on the station platform.

He was carrying a revolver when accosted, and his passport was made out in the name of Sylvester Chaiy, one of the two men who stayed with Kalmen at an Aix-En-Provence hotel shortly before the assassinations. Widespread search was launched for him.

Meanwhile, the widowed Queen Marie of Yugoslavia journeyed to Paris from the scene of the crime and joined her son, the new King Peter, whom she fears will meet the same fate as his father at the hands of political extremists.

The body of Barthou was brought to Paris for a national funeral while the remains of Alexander continued the sea journey to Yugoslavia aboard a warship.

In Belgrade, the new Yugoslav government took firm measures to quell political dissidence in the kingdom by whipping together a strong national concentration government.

ROMANCE LEADS OHIOANS TO JAIL

Portsmouth Woman, Former Employee in Bank, and Husband To Face Charges.

PORTSMOUTH, Oct. 11.—Romance bared a crime today.

Intervenor in the purported plot was the secret marriage of a woman bookkeeper in a national bank and the story of how the birth of her baby disclosed an alleged conspiracy of the women and her husband to misapply funds of the institution.

The mother, Mrs. Aileen Cook Bauer, 25, and her husband, Walter Bauer, formerly a wealthy real estate operator and the owner of a chain of filling stations, were indicted in a secret true bill by the federal grand jury at Cincinnati in connection with a shortage of about $5,000 at the bank.

Arrested by U. S. Deputy Marshal Robert Hughes, Mrs. Bauer was freed on her own recognizance to care for their baby and the husband was lodged in the county jail to await arraignment and possible release under bond.

According to U. S. District Attorney Francis C. Canny, Mrs. Bauer had been employed in the Security Central Bank here under the name of Aileen Cook as a bookkeeper. She was in charge of the accounts of depositors.

Her husband was a depositor. District Attorney Canny charged that Bauer would present checks against his bank account when there was not enough money to cover them. His wife, then his secret bride, Canny alleged, would make adjustment on the bank's books to cover the alleged overdraft.

They were to appear at the license bureau today with a special permit, issued by Probate Judge Edward Command, for their license. Michigan laws require a five-day wait between applications for the license and its issuance, but on a petition filed by Miss Skinner, the five-day wait was waived.

"We expect to be married right after we get the license," Edna told reporters. "We had planned a pretty celebration if the Tigers won the world championship, but now it's going to be quiet."

Edna gave his age as 22 and Edna's as 21. Both said their home was in El Dorado, Ark.

21 OUT OF 23 ST. LOUIS CARDINALS SMOKE CAMELS!

by FRANK FRISCH

They sure made it hot for us this year, but the Cardinals came through in great style clear to the end when we needed every ounce of energy to win. We needed it—and we had it. There's the story in a nutshell. It seems as though the team line up just as well on their smoking habits as they do on the ball field. Here's our line-up on smoking: 21 out of 23 of the Cardinals prefer Camels.

The World Series is over. The Cardinals are on the top. Their astounding achievement will go down in history—a sensational charge from 7 games behind to win the pennant...and then the series!

They are champions—and popular champions. Frankie Frisch, Carleton, Rothrock, Orsatti, Leo Durocher, Bill Walker, Medwick—all America knows this Cardinal team by heart and applauds its stirring victory.

"What do the World Champions smoke?" A natural question. And above you get Frank Frisch's answer. The preference is overwhelmingly for Camels.

The Cardinals' virtually unanimous preference for Camels is worthy of every smoker's attention. Be guided by their experience. Enjoy Camel's "energizing effect" which science has studied and confirmed. Camels are milder—made from a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. They never get on your nerves!

Society Leader Is Hurt

about 3:30 o'clock on the pretext of repairing a telephone, the maid related. An hour later he cut the telephone wires, hastily drew a pistol and, covering both Mrs. Stoll and the maid, bound the servant.

STRUCK WITH PIPE

Then he turned to Mrs. Stoll, clad in negligee, beat her on the head with a length of pipe, forced a gag into her mouth and started out the door with her. Mrs. Willett was near collapse as she told the story.

"If Berry comes, 'I'll kill him,'" the servant quoted the lone snatcher as having threatened.

Mrs. Stoll persuaded the kidnaper to loosen her gag and asked him to get her a blue and white checkered coat which he threw across her shoulders.

Then while she kicked viciously but futilely he picked her up and carried her to a small new coupe parked outside.

There was no one else in the automobile. Of that Mrs. Willett was certain.

Immediately he discovered his wife of five years was missing Stoll rushed to a neighbor's home and telephoned police. When he returned to his own home he found the ransom note on a bed in an upstairs room.

The missive was typewritten and bore detailed instructions for the Stoll family to follow in establishing contact.

The ransom demand had been set at $30,000 in one part of the note, according to reports, but this had been crossed out with x's and $50,000 was written in.

It was reliably reported also that the writer threatened to kidnap William A. Stoll, Berry's brother and oil firm partner and president of the Louisville Board of Trade, unless the ransom demands were promptly met.

Police and federal department of justice agents refused to confirm these reports or reveal the note, however.

POLICE ORDERED OUT

Mayor Neville Miller ordered out for duty every policeman and detective on the city police force "until the kidnaper is found."

Direction of the widespread man hunt soon fell into the hands of the department of justice agents, and it was reported that J. Edgar Hoover, their chieftain, was either here or enroute here from Washington to take personal command of the search and investigation.

The maid described Mrs. Stoll's kidnaper as a man about 30 years old, five feet eight inches in height and weighing about 130 pounds. He wore a dark gray suit and black box-toed shoes.

Former Ambassador Sackett rushed here from Cincinnati as soon as word of the abduction reached him, but what part he was playing in the attempted negotiations were not disclosed.

The dominant theory on which police and federal operatives worked was that a well organized kidnapping ring had engineered the plot and that the lone intruder was met by confederates, possibly in another automobile, soon after the get-away from the Stoll residence.

HAD HOUR LEAD

The kidnaper and his socially prominent prisoner had almost an hour start before word of the crime was flashed. Authorities believe from the story told by the maid that the abduction took place about 4:30 o'clock and Stoll's discovery of the crime and sounding of the alarm after 5 p. m.

Stoll lost no time in appealing to the abductor to begin negotiations looking toward her immediate release. Scarcely had the police hunt gotten under way than he issued the following statement:

"Berry Stoll has just found the note regarding the ransom and arrangements are being made accordingly."

Subsequently the oil man pleaded with friends not to telephone his home, explaining that he wanted the lines left open for possible word from the kidnappers or their prisoner.

Early today detectives established that the intruder had stopped at at least two gasoline filling stations yesterday afternoon inquiring "the way to Berry Stoll's home."

Mrs. Willett, the maid, was taken to police headquarters this morning to view photographs in the rogues' gallery. Police refused to comment on the results of her visit.

FINGERPRINTS FOUND

Authorities announced, however, that they found clear fingerprints on the telephone receiver and on a pipe in the room, which the maid said had been wielded on Mrs. Stoll. The fingerprints were being

She will be remembered by many here as she was a frequent visitor.

She leaves a son, William, of Cleveland.

Master Lewis Cummins of Columbus spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sark of studied at police headquarters today.

The abductor's reference to "Berry" as quoted by the maid led police to consider the theory that perhaps he was a disgruntled former employee seeking vengeance for being discharged or for some other fancied wrong.
